Junior Project Manager – Master Data Management

trivago
Düsseldorf

Posted 8 months ago (993 views)

Join trivago and help shape the future of the world's largest online hotel search. Apply today and work with the latest technology and with colleagues from over 60 countries.

Have a great mind for data analysis? Are you able to simply explain data insights and create well-structured processes? We're looking for someone who can take responsibility for our site's hotel master data.

The ideal candidate:

Be the topic owner for all hotel master data (e.g. hotel names, addresses, geocodes, etc.), and handle all related requests. Collaborate with the Product Manager in order to create efficient processes to ensure high-quality master data.

Determine and define requirements and criteria for our content data.

Identify high-quality hotel data content sources that our Data Collection team may use to fill our content gaps.

Develop the administration tools used by internal trivago employees and external sources and set out their requirements.

Work together with our Data Collection team to ensure a smooth quality assurance process for master data fields and improve our data import processes.

Essential requirements:

1-2 years' experience in technical project management within an online company.

Some previous experience working with big data analysis or statistics

A bachelor's degree in a business- or tourism-related field.

Excellent Excel skills.

The ability to analyse and find valuable insights in large amounts of data and to communicate these insights in an easy-to-understand way.

Impeccable organizational skills – you must be able to structure processes and tasks in a way that maximizes efficiency.

The confidence and knowledge of how to prepare and give useful presentations.

A basic understanding of SQL.

You speak English (our company language) fluently.

Life at trivago is...

The belief that factual proof, not seniority, determines which path to take.

Self-determined working hours based on measuring productivity through goals rather than number of hours spent in the office.

Being supported in all your needs, including relocation assistance and language classes for international arrivals.

The freedom to embrace small-scale failures as a path to large-scale success.

The opportunity to develop personally and professionally with regular free workshops, seminars, sports and activities.

The ability to push your ideas through to execution without being held back by bureaucracy.

Working at our head office in Düsseldorf, a city boasting the 6th highest quality of life in the world for expats.

Start date:

As soon as possible.

Additional information:

Please note that your CV and motivation letter must be written in English.

This is a fixed-term position of 1 year with a long-term perspective.

We do not require the services of an agency for this position.
